Red Crossers Get $6,450 In First 2 Days

Appeal of 'Give Double' Being Met, Reports at Headquarters Show.

Mansfield reported $1,450 had been banked while Shelby reported more than $5,000 had been collected after two days of the county Red Cross war fund campaign, the only drive the organization will make this year. This totals $6,450 against a goal of $59,000.

Only scattered reports, none of which included plants or organizations were included in Mansfield's total, according to L. W. Birch, county chairman, and the amount was the figure "banked" at the close of business yesterday with more known to have been collected.

The law firm of Weldon and Houston became the city's first 100 per cent organization, workers in the downtown area reported, with the Singer Sewing Machine company, the Wappner Funeral home, Hutchison, Voegele and Moore, and Selective Service Board No. 2 following in close order. Not all of the amounts these firms subscribed had been included in the banked figure, workers said, with the most of the $1,450 representing what they termed "velvet"—or that mailed in without solicitation.

Workers, Birch said, were slow to report figures which they did not term substantial amounts. None of the rural areas had reported yet this morning.

Shelby reported slow tabulations too, estimating that the two days had netted more than half of their $10,500 goal. More than 75 volunteer workers were participating in the house-to-house canvas in that city, that raised more than $6,000 in the last drive.

Indications that the "give double, there's twice the work to do" slogan is having its effect is contained in the few meager returns received to date. In most instances, where individuals gave only a "roll call dollar" last year, their contribution this year has been doubled. Some of the letters accompanying the donations have included remarks to the effect that the enclosed amounts were twice as much as in former years, campaigners said.

ROUNDS DECADE

FDR Completes 10 Years as U. S. President Today.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — President Roosevelt completed his 10th year in office today with the biggest tasks of his career still ahead of him.

Facing the 61-year-old chief executive was the job of leading the United States through the hardest stages of the war. Still before him were many home front difficulties — manpower and inflation.

Ten years ago tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt took over the reins of government from Herbert Hoover. A second term of office followed, and then the unprecedented third term.

Already there is talk of a fourth term, but Mr. Roosevelt, himself, has said nothing on this question.

RICKENBACKER 'GETS ACTION'

Ace Says He'll Continue To Preach Against Absenteeism.

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, who has caused considerable nationwide controversy recently because of his lectures protesting absenteeism in war plants, said today he planned to continue his "preaching."

"I've been preaching for years —now I'm getting action—and there'll be more before I'm through," he declared. Rickenbacker said absenteeism is something the American public must understand and face.

The controversy reached a peak several days ago in Los Angeles when Dave Levitt, a union leader, called Rickenbacker the "No. 1 ace of the last war, and the No. 2 rat of this one."

Death Toll In Mine Disaster Placed at 74

Death toll in the Smith Coal mine disaster at Bear Creek, Mont., worst in the history of the state, was placed at 74 after mine officials finally abandoned hope for the 60 men still entombed. Previously 14 bodies had been recovered. A mysterious explosion rocked the mine February 27. Three men, critically injured, were the only ones to escape alive. Friends and relatives still maintained a vigil at the mine's entrance as shown in the picture above. The other photo shows a general view of the mine.

RECOMMENDS 6 STREET JOBS

Engineer Submits Partial Program to Council For Summer Improvements.

Stressing that his recommendations by no means included all the streets meriting attention this year, City Engineer W. C. Statler last night presented to council a proposed list of six 1943 improvements formulated from inspections made with Street Commissioner Charles H. Hebel. No cost estimates have been compiled.

The proposals, referred to the street committee of which George C. Kyle, at-large member of council is chairman, do not include the resurfacing of South Main street from City square to the corporate limits or the reconstruction of Lexington avenue from Main street to Cook road. These projects primarily are sponsored by the state highway department, with municipal co-operation, as part of the maintenance of Routes 42 and 13.

"This report" Statler said, "has to do with paving that is in such condition that general resurfacing is necessary to prevent further disintegration. As this report

JUST ENOUGH TO GET BY?

Officials Say Potato Supply Will Just About Reach.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The supply of potatoes is running short but there should be no serious deficiency before the new crop comes in about June 1, agriculture department officials said today.

They conceded that present supplies might not be sufficient to meet all demands.

Shipments of potatoes to market in January and February were reported to have been abnormally large, due to desire of producers to reduce storages and avert the lower price ceilings which go into effect next month.

Homes to Be Dark Next Week In City Sectional Dim-Outs

Mansfield will undergo sectional dim outs next week preparatory to a city-wide dimout the night of March 18 in preparation for state blackout tests which will be conducted in April, it was announced today by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, civilian defense coordinator.

Air raid wardens, auxiliary police and messengers are the only members of the OCD personnel who will mobilize for the dim-outs, Judge Kalbfleisch said. Each will last about 15 minutes.

Mobilization of the designated defensemen will be signalled by a steady drone of 10 air raid sirens at 9 p. m., at which time all structures—industrial, commercial or residential—will be dimmed out by the shutting off of all lights or the satisfactory blackout of any assembly room where illumination is maintained.

Street lights will remain in service and traffic lights set on the "yellow" caution control. Persons having no business out of doors will be expected to remain under cover until the steady tone of the siren signals an "all clear" condition about 15 minutes after the mobilization call and the alert which will follow in a few minutes.

Persons leaving their homes should turn out their lights or leave someone in charge who can do so, Judge Kalbfleisch said. "There is a city ordinance," the coordinator explained, "covering this and providing a penalty for violators."

The dimout schedule and districts follow, including only the areas within the city limits:

Monday: Entire area south of Park avenue west and west of South Main street.

Tuesday: Entire area west of North Main street and north of Park avenue west.

Wednesday: All area south of Park avenue east and east of South Main street.

Thursday: Entire area east of North Main street and north of Park avenue east.

Members of the Mansfield Retail Merchants' association, meeting last night with Judge Kalbfleisch and Police Captain Jesse J. Schwab, civilian defense commander, arranged to meet in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at 9 a. m. Friday to complete arrangements under which they will comply with dimout regulations.

BITTEN BY HOG

Farmer Attacked in Barnyard Near New London.

NEW LONDON — Attacked by an angry boar, Earl Kirkpatrick, 61, a farmer of near New London, was in a New London hospital today recovering from severe injuries and loss of blood.

Kirkpatrick said he had gone into the barnyard to get some straw from the stack and when he tried to get the hog to move out of his way, the animal turned on him, biting him several times on the legs and thighs. Kirkpatrick was able to crawl to safety, but he lost a large amount of blood before help arrived.

Blood plasma was administered in the hospital and other transfusions followed. Kirkpatrick is expected to recover.

City-Farm Forum Planned to Work Out Food Production

Farmers and city residents will get a chance to exchange ideas on the food shortage and farm labor problem and propose solutions at a Richland county war board forum session in Mansfield Wednesday night, March 10, Guy L. Taylor, chairman of the war board, said today.

With "How Are We Going to Produce More Food" as the theme, persons in the audience will have an opportunity to offer suggestions for solving the problem that is worrying farm and city residents alike.

Speaker at the session probably will be Ed. Duree, Defiance county farmer and rural spokesman, Taylor said. It had not been determined today where the meeting will be held, but Taylor said it would be in a room or hall large enough to accommodate big representations from both farm and city communities.

"This production problem has reached the stage where the armed forces and the farmer are going to be fed and the city resident will have what's left, so the city man ought to have something to

Weakened Gandhi Ends Fast, Sips Orange Juice

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi, 73-year-old Indian nationalist leader, ended a 21-day hunger strike in protest against his internment by the British by sipping a glass of orange juice at 9:30 a. m. today (midnight, EWT, Tuesday).

A communique announcing the end of the fast said that Gandhi was weak and showed signs of strain but was in good spirits.

Two minutes were spent in meditation before Gandhi accepted from his wife's hands the orange juice representing the first nourishment he has taken in ... weeks, except for small quantities of water and lime juice.

... doctors who attended him throughout the fast will remain on hand to maintain a close watch over Gandhi during his convalescence.

With the end of the fast, Gandhi reverts to his status as a political prisoner, special concessions which permitted him to receive visitors being withdrawn. Only his relatives will be permitted to see him as long as he remains under detention.

WARNS NAVAL LOSS TO HIT 10 PER CENT

Knox Tells Congress, Nation Casualties To Be High as Fighting Grows.

2,250,000 MEN SOUGHT

Secretary Says Nation Builds Fleets to Dominate All Seas of the World.

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A grim warning to expect a 10 per cent casualty rate in navy personnel was laid before congress and the nation today as Secretary of the Navy Knox disclosed an operating force plan calling for a navy "big enough to dominate all seas over the world."

The solemn navy estimate that it would lose, and have to replace, one man out of each ten—killed or wounded—came as Knox and ranking officials unfolded their program for building up personnel strength to 2,250,000 by July, 1941.

Knox's outline of the navy's "operating force" plan and his figures on potential costs of the sea warfare were made public by the house subcommittee on naval appropriations as it completed work on a new $4,000,000,000 supplemental naval spending bill.

As it emerged from the subcommittee the measure carried $3,816,206,583 in direct appropriations—a reduction of $187,793,417 from the budget estimates—and contract authorizations, amounting to $238,740,400.

The sub-committee pared the navy's estimate of $147,240,000 for clothing an estimated personnel strength of 2,250,000 down to an even $100,000,000, advising congress that:

"While no ceiling has been imposed by law upon naval enlisted strength built up through the reserve, an expansion of such magnitude . . . should be the subject of careful scrutiny and recommendations to the house by the naval affairs committee."

Members of the subcommittee were shown by the record to have pressed Knox quickly for an explanation of the casualty estimate. They drew from him testimony that on Feb. 8 the total casualties

ROONEY'S MUM

Refuses To Talk About MGM Deferment Request.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Mickey Rooney, 21, remained in seclusion today, refusing to discuss the action of his movie studio in appealing the young actor's draft classification of 1-A.

Representatives of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, where Rooney is one of the chief actors, said their action was "a test case" to decide whether movie stars should be granted deferment from military service.

While technicians and other studio employes are granted deferments, argued one executive, actors are being drafted in wholesale lots. "This leaves the industry with complete technical staffs, but with few actors," the executive said.

DIPLOMATS HELD

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The state department today announced that German and Italian diplomatic officials captured in North Africa have been brought to the United States and are being maintained under guard in the Ingleside hotel near Staunton, Va.

RAF Bombers Rip Western Industry Area

Stockholm Reports Flames Still Lick Ruins of Berlin Government Office And Apartment Sectors, Many Residents Left Homeless.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Berlin is without water, gas or electricity as a a result of the terrific raid carried out by the Royal Air Force yesterday, a Reuters dispatch from Zurich reported today. A slaughter-house was hit in the course of the attack, permitting hundreds of cattle to break loose and stampede through the streets.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Royal Air Force squadrons rocked Germany with a seventh consecutive night raid, the air ministry announced today as dispatches from the continent said Berlin was still digging out of smouldering ruins left by the greatest bombing ever made on the Nazi capital.

The assault was centered on industrial areas of western Germany.

Planes of the bomber command at the same time planted mines in Axis-controlled waters.

Three bombers were reported missing.

The new assault marked the conclusion of a week of sustained bombing of Axis-held Europe by Allied planes which has been officially described as a prelude to invasion of the continent.

It was asserted by the Nazis that only slight damage was done in last night's attack.

At a late hour last night, according to a dispatch from Stockholm, flames still were licking at the ruins of buildings shattered 24 hours previously when an estimated force of between 400 and 500 of Britain's heaviest bombers made a "thunderbolt" attack on the heart of Berlin.

While the RAF bombers were continuing their mission of destruction over the reich last night big artillery batteries on the southeast coast of England opened fire across the Dover straits into German positions on the French side of the channel. An hour-long duel of heavy guns resulted.

When the British opened fire, hurling many shells into the Cap Gris Nez coastal area the Germans immediately replied and the intensified shelling rocked the Dover area. The straits were illuminated by the gun flashes and the roar of the belching cannon was thunderous.

Stockholm advices said that a large part of Berlin's residents were made homeless by the Monday night concentrated raid during which an estimated 900 tons of "cookie" 8,000-pound bombs and 4,000-pound "blockbusters" were smashed down on the city.

Whole blocks of apartments were hit and well-known buildings in the center of the city were reduced to ruins, it was said.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph said that the Germans were forced to raze numerous buildings

LOST: Nazis Admit Giving Up Rzhev as Soviet Advance Slows

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—The great German military garrison at Rzhev, strategic Russian city northwest of Moscow which Adolf Hitler once said was worth half the city of Berlin, has been withdrawn, the German high command announced today.

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW — (AP) — German counter-attacks have increased from the far northern Russian front to the Black sea sector and together with fickle weather have slowed the offensives of the Soviet armies.

The sharpest Nazi counter-blows came in the Donets basin area southwest of Voroshilovgrad where they have been massing tanks for some time and attacking with strong infantry and aerial detachments.

New German outfits have appeared on several sectors of the front. The biggest was another contingent from Holland, including the 167th infantry division which the Russians said was on the front west of Kharkov.

The Red army, however, was on the offensive in all sectors except southwest of Voroshilovgrad, and all of their drives have made plodding progress although no place names have been mentioned by the Soviet war bulletins in more than 24 hours.

Those of us who were in Russia last winter at this time witnessed changeable weather—but nothing like this.

I recently saw bright sunshine,

BLISTERED: Tunis Hit From Air as Allies Stop Nazis Cold

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Carrying out nine raids through fog and storms in the Aleutians, U. S. aircraft during February dropped half a million pounds of bombs on Japanese positions at Kiska without the loss of any planes, the navy reported today.

(By International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—With all Axis thrusts on the Tunisian front stopped dead by American and British troops, the North African air force carried out a devastating new attack on the port of Tunis today.

Huge American Flying Fortresses attacked shipping and port installations in the harbor coincident with other aerial assaults against Axis ground positions.

German forces in northeast Tunisia relaxed their assaults in the Beja and Medjez-El-Bab areas, while Allied troops maintained pressure against Nazi units which sought in vain to puncture the lines held by the British First army and French units.

One unconfirmed dispatch from the front said that the Germans were withdrawing along the Beja-Mateur road after suffering heavy losses.

Royal Air Force Hurricane bombers and Spitfires kept up a heavy pounding of Axis troop concentrations, transport columns, tanks and gun emplacements, scoring direct hits on one encampment which started large fires. A transport and tank column in the

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

WITH ONE EYE on the waiters, who I guessed were spies of Milner, Adams gave my father an explanation of his presence.

"Mr. Milner sent me over to thank you for your kindness," he said, "and to ask if everything here had been satisfactory, as he didn't have time to inquire."

"Most satisfactory," my father said. "But as long as you are here, there is something I wish to bring to Mr. Milner's attention. Take a chair, will you, until this dinner debris is cleared away."

"Now then," my father went on, when the waiters had gone, and Adams began to speak hurriedly, in muted tones.

"He thinks you're pulling off something he'd like to horn in on," Adams began.

"Have you any idea what he thinks it is?" my father asked, and I knew he was distinctly uneasy.

"I don't think he knows himself," Adams said, and my father's quick intake of breath showed his relief. "He's just got a notion into his head there's somebody, either here or at the Veritzen suite, that you don't want him to see. Of course he doesn't dare to pull off any pretended inquiry over at the Veritzens' he'd get tossed out on his ear before he got started, and he knows it. So he's prowling around here. What shall I tell him?"

"Tell him," my father said after a moment, "that you gave us his message about the dinner. Then tell him that you told us he had suspected a short circuit in these rooms because of the way our lights were flickering, and had asked you to check the bulbs to see if any of them were loose.

"Then tell him, and be sure to stress this point, that you looked at every bulb in the suite, that we even unlocked every closet door to let you inspect the bulbs inside, and then assure him that there's nobody here except the people he saw in the living room as he went through. Can you make him believe all that?"

"Yes, and I think that will satisfy him," Adams replied.

"How long would it take you to really inspect those bulbs?" my father asked.

"From five to ten minutes," Adams replied.

"Then wait eight minutes," my father decided, "before going back. And now I want to give you instructions for the rest of the evening."

He paused and put his finger tips together, sure sign that he was weighing his words.

"Your one job for this evening," he said, "is keeping track of Milner. I want to know where he is every minute of the time. I shall be in this apartment and you can report to me here.

"I know that is going to be a difficult job, but it's vitally important to me and I'm sure you're ingenious enough to manage it.

"I would prefer that you remain in the next apartment," my father said, "if, by using the telephone to ask Milner plausible questions, pretending to report to him, and by using employees of the hotel of whom we are sure, you can keep track of him. But do not hesitate to go elsewhere if you have to. It is vital that I keep track of his whereabouts—and his activities."

"I don't think you'll miss much of them," Adams said quietly, and when the eight minutes was up he left to make his report to Milner.

My father put up the chain and turned to me with outward composure, but little signs I recognized betrayed his excited anxiety.

"Please release Georges first and bring him in here," he said, and when I had brought in the young fugitive King of Trees my father asked me abruptly.

"Did I understand you to say that you told Mary you and Katharine would go over to her apartment and stay there until she returned from the theater?"

Make Good Looks Your Resolution

By MME. QUI VIVE

Old Year 1942 has packed up his bags and got out, good riddance to him. Little Boy 1943 is here, and no matter what he brings to us, let's resolve to keep brave and cheerful, full of ginger, on the job.

On this day a woman should look in the mirror, take inventory, ask herself if, during the past year, she has obeyed health rules, been faithful to her good looks creed. With a world chaotic and distraught, this is no time to slump. She must keep strong and, for the sake of self-respect, and her loved ones, she must hang on to good appearance.

We have less time for dallying at the dressing table. Have to curtail long sessions at the beauty works, but we cannot dispense with them altogether. They offer us relaxation from tension, give us a chance to close our eyes, get better acquainted with our own thoughts.

It is surprising how a facial treatment will put a woman on her toes, how a good old scalp friction will rub worries out of her mind. What a new, becoming hat will do for an unsteady nervous system cannot be told in words. It is a revitalizer of the spirit. Let us grab beauty blessings when we can, even though it must be on the run.

The state of the world isn't going to make any of us look any younger. Nor will the extra work we are doing. So it is up to you to take excellent care of yourself.

More than ever must you put your mind on nutrition. You can't run an engine without fuel, but the woman who lives on a lettuce leaf and a cup of coffee a day seems to think so. Begin with a breakfast that is a meal, not a snack. Include a cereal or an egg with the usual fruit, coffee and toast. You have no appetite in the morning? Do exercises and you'll feel like eating.

Don't cut down your sleeping hours. There never was a time in recent years anyway when so many women were piling into bed early. They have to, in order to attend to their own activities and the extra ones they have taken for themselves to help win the war.

Take out insurance against wrinkles by keeping your complexion lubricated. Use cream freely after washing the face at bedtime. Follow with a brisk slapping and patting to strengthen underlying fibers, to smack blood streams into action.

Brush your hair. The hair is sympathetic. Anything wrong with the physical works and the silky shafts sulk, go dull or grey, or fly the coop.

Put cuticle cream on your finger nails. Apply a hand lotion freely and often if you are a home maker. And keep well!

THE AUGURIES are for a fairly successful and interesting day, particularly if lagging affairs are subjected to revamping. New projects are also favored, with the possibility of employers or financial backing being required. In all moves it might be well to be alert to small deceptions. Those whose birthday it is may count on favorable conditions for launching new projects. Fresh, shrewd and sagacious change or revamping of plans and procedures along enterprising lines may be due for gratifying success. Literary matters should flourish.

A child born on this day will have much talent, both business, artistic and intellectual. It may find favor with its superiors.

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICK THE RIGHT TIMES

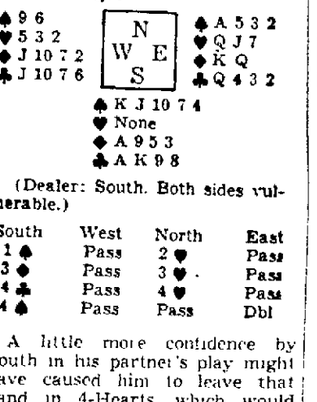
Holding up your ace, for the purpose of knocking off an honor in the dummy, is good tactics in general, unless other factors have to be considered. There can be much more important considerations, however, than the mere killing of a particular high card. For instance, the matter of killing the entire scheme of the hand, by forcing the declarer to lose one more trick than he can afford.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| 3 ♦ | Pass | 3 ♥ | Pass |
| 4 ♣ | Pass | 4 ♥ | Pass |
| 4 ♠ | Pass | Pass | Dbl |

A little more confidence by South in his partner's play might have caused him to leave that hand in 4-Hearts, which would have been child's play to make against any lead, with the loss of only one trick in spades, one in hearts and one in diamonds, as a diamond could be tossed early on a club honor. The 4-Spades got made, however, for the more profitable doubled score, but it required help from the ambitious doubler in the East.

West read the bidding soundly, and opened his spade 9 to prevent the dummy from ruffing any clubs or diamonds. When the 8 was put on this, East decided to hold up his A so that he could later expunge the Q with it. South took that trick, scored two high clubs, ruffed a third club with the spade Q, ditched his last club and a diamond on a heart tops and had no losers remaining in his hand except two diamonds and a spade.

If East had sized up the situation correctly, he would have taken the first trick with his spade A and led back another trump to prevent the dummy from doing any ruffing. The heart tops then could have disposed of two losers from the South hand, but no matter what got tossed on them, there would still have been three losers left in the minors.

CLOTHES RACKS

Collapsible wooden clothes racks with a smooth, non-sag finish are a boon to war workers who do most of their clothes washing in the bathroom wash basin. When they have served their purpose for the drying of socks, slips, and scanties, they can be folded flat and tucked into a small closet or opened out to form a convenient flat-topped stand that will hold a breakfast tray.

CHAPTER VI

Carol turned her head and smiled. "Is there anything you don't think of?"

"Plenty, darling. Plenty. And by the way, I'm having a bridge luncheon tomorrow for twelve, and I want you to be there. It's important for you to be there, looking your best and talking a blue streak. If it kills you, talk. They'll forget about it much sooner if you talk."

"All right. But I'd rather not."

"You've got to tackle this town as I tackled it—with everyone talking about you and trying to look into your mind and trying to tear what they find apart. Don't kid yourself. They can't wait to see you. But fortunately in a few weeks somebody will get married or have a baby or something and they'll stop talking about you. But the important thing at the moment is to keep going, be in evidence and look your stunning best."

"So that they won't be sorry for me?"

"Frankly, yes. But don't overlook one thing, baby. Any girl as attractive as you is a menace when she's free. You can't slip out and have a drink at the bar with somebody else's husband as you used to with nothing thought about it. I'm giving it to you straight. And you'll probably hear an earful from the husbands of your friends—how misunderstood they are and won't-you-have-lunch-with-me sort of things. I hope you'll tell me the first man who makes a pass at you. Well, here we are."

Home . . . A tall, new, brick apartment house overlooking the river.

On the third floor Freda put the key in the lock and opened the door. Carol stepped into the foyer. The living-room was large, a long, rather narrow room into which her furniture, a soft mixture of mulberry and green and gold, fitted nicely.

Yes, these were her things in this strange place . . . her scattered Oriental rugs on the newly polished floor, her small mahogany tables with the tall white lamps, her phonographic-radio in the exquisite cabinet (a Christmas present from Bill a year ago), her mahogany dining-room furniture, polished, graceful, with the silver service on the sideboard and the silver candelabra on the table. A kitchen, black and white and anonymous as most kitchens were, a breakfast nook furnished with maple and, with red and white checkered gingham at the windows and ivy spouting new buds from a familiar little, crystal, hanging vase.

Freda said, leading the way, "There were two bedrooms and I didn't think you'd have need for two, so I made the smaller one into a sort of study and lounge room."

The chaise longue covered newly in chintz, the desk, books and a deep comfortable green chair were in the smaller room.

"And your bedroom," Freda said, opening the door.

Her bedroom. Only hers now. And once, planning the master bedroom of her house, she had thought that it must not be too feminine since Bill was to share it . . . This was a large room, too, furnished with the familiar blond maple pieces and the blue and white draperies and the dark blue broadloom rug. She stood quietly, missing something so much that there was a pain in her. Missing Bill's things, his silver brushes, his shoe trees that he always tried to hide under his bed . . . Missing in a room, furnished with all familiar things, a sense that it was also a man's room and the intimate room of marriage.

The closet door was slightly ajar. She did not see Bill's robe or the gay pajamas he favored or his rack of ties . . . Her eyes rested on the highboy. It was empty, she knew. Empty of his things that had filled every neatly kept drawer. His highboy, easily accessible to his bed. Empty, it no doubt smelled of a recent scrubbing. Empty highboy, highboy without a master and a bed that would not be touched. Everything familiar, everything beautifully in place except Bill who would not come in and say, "Greetings!" and kiss her . . . kiss her sometimes with the dutiful peck of a tired young man who has had a tough day in town, but at other times kiss her with the lips of a lover.

Straightening because suddenly she was hurting all over, Carol turned to Freda.

"It's lovely! You're a wonder."

"Thanks. I've had the time of my life. I've loved doing it. Ian says I've been so exhilarated it's worked all my temper out of me. Is there anything else I can do? Make you some coffee or unpack or run you a bath?"

Carol pulled off her hat. "Certainly not. You've been wonderful. It would have taken so much out of me to do this, Freda. I can't thank you enough."

"Oh, forget it. It was fun. There's one thing more. Your car is in the garage two blocks away . . . I don't want to run, but you know Ian, darling. He wants to sit and listen to the radio and not say a word to me but he wants me to be there, Carol."

"I'm all right, Freda. I know how you feel about Bill, too. It's funny but I resent the nasty things people have said and will say about him. When Bill's brother telephoned just before I left and cursed Bill horribly, I was angry with him and then angry with myself for being angry." She shook her head. "It doesn't make sense." Then, "Are they back? Do you know anything about her?"

Freda said, "Yes, they're back and they're at the Beaumont. That's all I know."

Carol nodded. "I'd like to know what she looks like and how she speaks. But most of all I'd like to know what she's thinking and feeling. I've tried to put myself in her position and I couldn't. It's no use to pretend, Freda, especially to you. No matter how plainly or how firmly I tell myself that it is over between Bill and me, I know I'll live in a state of waiting for him to come back to me which will probably last as long as I live . . . Isn't it horrible to know you're going to live like that?"

"That's what I was afraid of," Freda said quietly.

On the Saturday following Carol's arrival home Freda parked her car before the Beaumont hotel. She was going to call on Evelyn Sturtevant . . . The thought had burst like a bomb in her mind and though she knew she would stir Ian's rare, but violent temper if he knew, she was, nevertheless, following her impulse. Fair always, it occurred to her that it was a dishonorable act to pay a social call which would appear to be the act of a potential friend when, actually, she merely wanted to meet Evelyn before anyone else met her and thus form her own opinion of her.

Right or wrong, dishonorable or no, she was a person to follow a strong impulse and certainly a strong one had led her almost to the door of the hotel. Not with misgivings she thought. "Well, here goes," and slid out of the car and walked, slim, attractive in black with silver foxes, to the hotel entrance.

Inside she went to the house telephone and asked for Mrs. Sturtevant.

A second later she heard a slow drawl, "Hello."

"Mrs. Sturtevant?"

"Yes."

"I am Mrs. Ian Kelly. I've known Bill for a long time and I " She added quickly and with complete honesty, "I'd like to meet you."

"Why, of course, Mrs. Kelly. By all means come up."

That voice—cool, indolent, cultured. Freda's eyes flashed with excitement, and color rose to her face. "I'm not presumptuous," she thought. "Not much! But in a few minutes I'll see the girl for whom Bill threw over Carol. I've done crazy things in my life, but this is probably the craziest."

In the elevator she remembered Carol as she had been at Freda's luncheon-bridge the day after her arrival. Carol had been the first to arrive at Freda's handsome Georgian home. That had been smart, Freda thought. Carol's arriving first and not making a belated entrance when all eyes would have been turned on her at once. She had looked lovely in a deep blue frock which had enhanced her sunburn and fair hair.

Carol had acted at what sacrifice Freda could only guess—precisely as Freda had hoped she would. She had talked about the cruise and even mentioned the motion picture actress she had seen on the street in Reno. No tears, no sadness, no invitation for the sympathy of her friends who had been anticipating an embarrassing ordeal. And Carol had been the last to leave, knowing that at least her friends could not talk about her until they were out of Freda's home.

Freda lifted her hand and knocked at the door of Bill and Evelyn's suite. She hated being a little nervous, and scared. The door was opened quickly and Evelyn was smiling and saying, "Do come in, Mrs. Kelly." Freda stepped into the sitting room. "It was so sweet of you to come. Not expecting any visitors and not knowing anyone here, I haven't dressed. Will you have tea or cocktails? I'll have them sent up."

Freda said, "I'll have tea, thank you. I never drink in the afternoon when I'm driving. And when I leave here, I'm picking up my son at his little friend's house."

So this was Evelyn, this tall, lithe, beautifully-formed girl in tailored blue crepe pajamas. This girl with a thin, olive-tinted, aristocratic face and dark hair which grew back from a pronounced widow's peak and the loveliest hands—and nails deep crimson—that Freda had ever seen. This seemingly gracious girl who walked with the grace of a cat and whose movements seemed studied, so perfect were they.

Then Freda looked directly into her eyes. They were almost green, eyes set rather close together above the small nose and rather large, crimson mouth. Evelyn's teeth were beautiful, large, even, white. But Evelyn wasn't beautiful. Freda thought stubbornly, she was beautiful only when you regarded the all of her. But one thing Freda could not deny was that Bill had married a girl of poise and background and social assurance.

Freda sat in the wine-colored club chair, Evelyn on the faded green divan.

Evelyn said, getting up to offer Freda a cigaret and to hold a silver lighter to it and then to light one for herself, "It's grand having someone to talk to. It was so thoughtful of you to come." The voice was still cool, indolent, cultured. "I don't know anyone here, of course, and we're not settled yet. We wanted to think a bit about where to live. Not that hotels are new to me. I've lived rather a good bit in them here and abroad. This one is particularly dreadful."

I THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

HINGTON -In discussion of commercial air affic after the war, we would do well to it our fundamental point that everything upon satisfactory reciprocal arrangements reat Britain. That must be the starting of any American policy regarding post-war rcial aviation.

discussion of commercial air traffic after the war, meaningless phrases have been tossed around. They have done harm among friendly nations. We should quit using the meaningless phrases about freedom of the air and sovereignty of the air and talk in specific terms.

Mrs Clare Luce, whose first speech in congress set off an international controversy, has clarified her meaning. She says we must make reciprocal pacts with Great Britain and other forations, and the sooner the better. That e argument back on the track, or rather ically eliminates any argument.

e read Mrs. Luce's freshman speech to hat we should demand air rights everywhere ant none here. No sensible person would uch an impossible position. On the other some have said that freedom of the air that we would allow everybody to have cted air rights in our territory and ask in return. No one would advocate such less policy.

desirability of developing the whole business around reciprocal arrangements with Great Britain is that our two countries are now intimately mixed up all over the world. We are sharing bases, protecting each other's outposts, and developing military and transport air facilities all around the world in which we are both involved. More than that, however, the United States and Great Britain are strategically one group now and will be hereafter.

The British Isles are the keystone of our defense in the Atlantic. The circle air route by way of Iceland, Greenland and Canada is part of our defense. This line to the United Kingdom, which is known among navy men as the US-UK line, has top priority in all of our external defense.

The west coast of Africa, where Great Britain has held strategic territory, is also essential to the defense of the western hemisphere. President Roosevelt has made it part of our policy that we hereafter have an interest in the situation on the west coast of Africa.

Australia, New Zealand, and British flag possessions in the Pacific are also part of our defense system.

Our interests are mutual in the military sense, in development of air facilities both in the Atlantic and the Pacific.

The silly thing is that commercial rivalry should be allowed to get in the way of the essential military defense of both nations by obscuring the fact that reciprocal air commerce arrangements are essential to the maintenance of that military defense in the air after the war.

For instance, it doesn't matter too much what kind of a split we make with the British about commercial air traffic to South America. But it is vital that the military air facilities we have built on the west coast of Africa remain as part of the air defense of the American hemisphere. Anybody who has flown that route understands why.

International commercial air traffic after the war cannot be considered apart from military requirements.

AIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

YORK—Mrs Walter Ferguson, who writes the papers, has had the gumption to pro- id in time of war, too, that we admit to s that the Star-Spangled Banner is a flop itional anthem and select another out of books or get a new one. Mrs. Ferguson words right out of this typewriter. Having he sheepishness of many American gatherings in their attempt to sing the song and winced at the high, thin squeaks of patriots who tried to scale the heights of "the land of the free," I looked into matter and discovered that like most of our college alma mater songs, the heart cry of the American people is borrowed from the old world.

It mounts a stilted lyric written by a lawyer under emotional stress. According to my authority, Francis Scott Key had been to the British fleet to negotiate the re- a Dr. Beanes of Upper Marlborough, Md., himself, detained and forced to observe bardment of Fort McHenry in the night 13-14, 1814. Sentiments were uncompli- to the British tyrants and aggressors of and there are portions of his stately ion which today could arouse charges of on, in addition to which fact, the air is le except by a daring soprano or tenor anyone knows all the words and I dare e are more of us who can plod through another of the versions of Frankie and or Abdulla Bul-Bul Ameer.

y years ago the Star-Spangled Banner the national anthem but only one of songs which children learned in school second, at best, to the one sung to the God Save the King, or Queen, as the case and known as either My Country 'Tis of America also a foreign air and still ke the Star-Spangled Banner, filched from mans.

words of My Country 'Tis of Thee are etic and it is a song that can be sung ably and without distress by the majority verage movie audience or bond rally but theless, an import job, and came to us on the second bounce, at that. Thus, a nation which has produced more music, by volume, than all the others combined from the beginning of time to the date of these present, and which rates music as a major industry and an important craft in labor, has no anthem of its native own and the first and second choices both are of enemy origin.

The Star-Spangled Banner was adopted officially as the anthem by executive order of President Wilson, probably at the end of a very busy day, in 1916, when he was still the man who had kept us out of war and the British and the Germans were still, in the eyes of our government, six of one and half a dozen of the other. If he gave the question any consideration at all he probably thought it good politics to give formal recognition to a number which tweaked the lion's tail as a means of indicating that, for all the British propaganda, Americans still remembered some old scores.

Mrs. Ferguson suggests Columbia the Gem of the Ocean as a better song wherein she is right of course, to the extent that any song that can be sung is better than one that can't, but no American ever thinks of the United States as Columbia or as the gem of the ocean either, and the poem is distinctly Prussian in spots.

However, I would think that among the works already done, including Berlin's and the utterly American originalities of George M. Cohan and John Philip Sousa, men who possessed and couldn't help expressing the living spirit of their country, we might find something that everyone could sing and, preferably, march to. And, for a rash selection subject to adornment by some poet, preferably one who knows rhymes, I might propose the Maine Stein Song, revived a few years ago by Rudy Vallee, a thumping rousing, really musical piece done within the range of the normal, or barber-shop voice.

The Star-Spangled banner, however, is out of the question and, aside from the embarrassment of an error committed not by the people but by a busy president in a campaign year, its repudiation should cause no regret. The American people have tried hard but the words are pompous and if a thousand patriots try to sing it there comes a point at which they all fall back except a dogged few who sound like old women wailing at a weed-grown grave.

RE-ENACT TAX ON FUELS OVER DEM PROTEST

Administration Forces Pass Levy For General Fund Despite Surplus.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS - The state administration today checked off another victory for its legislative fiscal program with house passage of a senate-approved bill to re-enact for two more years the one-cent a gallon liquid fuel tax with the funds going to the state general revenue fund.

The Republican majority overrode a concerted drive by minority Democrats who sought to allocate at least part of the funds to counties, municipalities and townships for road maintenance, and approved the bill by Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R., Miami, 107 to 23.

The executive budget estimated the tax would yield $20,500,000 in the next two years.

Both parties caucused before the vote to determine policy. Gray, as a last-minute concession to township trustees whose desire for part of the fuel tax receipts had threatened to block passage in the house, introduced a bill in the senate which would allocate the counties' portion of a 25 per cent share of the motor vehicle license revenues to the townships.

House Democrats made their most determined drive of the session to block allocation of the liquid fuel tax to the general revenue fund, resorting to a series of amendments including one to allocate the fuel revenues to education of returned soldiers. They demanded and got—roll calls on their amendments, all of which, were defeated.

After the tax measure passed the house, 24 Democrats signed and filed a protest "for the reason that the tax is not needed in the face of the tremendous surplus now existing in the treasury of the state."

During debate, Democratic Rep. Lody Huml, Cleveland, recalled the hope expressed by Governor Bricker in 1941 that the liquid fuel tax revenues might be returned to the local governments by 1943 for road maintenance.

Bricker, in his budget message last month, said "this would have been possible now, in view of our surplus, had it not been for the war with its diverse effect upon state revenues and the increased cost of government."

Meanwhile, the senate labor subcommittee drafting revisions of the Ross bill to relax female and child labor laws for the duration of the war announced it will confer next week with representatives of labor and employers' groups—four representatives of each with members of the press admitted.

ARRANGE TESTS

County Pupils to Have State Examinations March 24.

Annual state senior scholarship tests for Richland county high school pupils will be conducted March 24 at the schools instead of at central headquarters in the county, Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, said today.

Fifty-seven seniors from eight schools had indicated today they would take the tests. The number is expected to be considerably larger this year since pupils will not have to travel to Mansfield as in the past, Robinson added.

Contestants are chosen from the upper 40 per cent of their classes. Test papers are sent to Columbus where scholarship statistics are compiled.

Entries will include 10 pupils each from the Union Rural and Springfield township schools, nine from Bellville, eight from Lexington, seven from Madison township, six from Lucas, five from Butler, and two from Shiloh.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Mme. Chiang Kai-shek who despite illness had adhered to a strenuous speech-making schedule since arriving in New York Monday became so ill early today that she was forced to cancel the broadcast of an address slated for this afternoon.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK - Madame Chiang Kai-shek -the voice of an ill-armed people tortured for six years by the flames of war has called for a peace of charity and forgiveness for the enemy when the day of United Nations' victory arrives.

Speaking last night to 17,000 people attending a meeting in her honor in Madison Square Garden and to a nation-wide radio audience, the wife of the Chinese generalissimo declared:

"The goal of our common struggle at the conclusion of this war should be to shape the future so that this whole world must be thought of as one great state common to gods and men."

Mme. Chiang voiced a plea for a post war world "resting on the pillars of justice, co-existence, co-operation and mutual respect."

Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air force, told the meeting the air force's goal was wide-scale bombing of Japan "to insure the total destruction of this enemy on his own soil."

General Arnold said his conferences with Generalissimo Chiang in Chungking three weeks ago had shown him "that few if any of the armies in history have had to operate under such impossible conditions as have the Chinese."

LACK 6 VOTES TO PASS FARM DEFERMENT BILL

Senate Sponsors Muster 43 After Military Committee Approves Measure.

By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Sponsors of legislation for blanket draft deferment of all farm workers counted 43 senators -six less than a clear majority—for it today as opponents worked on a substitute to limit its application to those engaged in "essential" agricultural activities.

"It looks like we might have enough to pass it," said Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.) whose blanket farm deferment measure was approved by the military committee 9 to 7 yesterday in slightly modified form despite opposition from the war department and selective service. The main change would bar such deferments after Jan. 1, 1944.

"Those changes don't amount to anything," the Alabaman told reporters. "The date limitation makes no difference because the army says it has no plans for induction after the first of the year."

In the house, the Kilday bill to give married men and men with children draft deferment priorities apparently had struck a snag and its backers admitted they were having difficulty extricating it.

Approved almost two weeks ago by a 23 to 2 vote of the military committee, the measure cannot be voted on by the house, under normal procedure, until given clearance by the rules committee.

Chairman Sabath (D., Ill.) said he saw little prospect for rules committee hearings before next week, although he "might be able to squeeze them in late this week."

Meanwhile, hearings on the Austin-Wadsworth compulsory home-front service bill were in recess until tomorrow and the senate itself was taking today and tomorrow off.

The Bankhead bill as approved would provide for automatic deferment until next Jan. 1 of every registrant "regularly engaged in an agricultural occupation" on a farm in connection with the production or harvesting of any agriculture commodity."

No such deferred worker could change to another job or enter the military service unless his local board determined this would be in the best interest of the war effort.

"You've been writing so often about my going to the army," says John (Young Duke) Weber, "you can put in the paper now that it's official. On the 10th of this month."

"Yes," chimed in Audy Brandt, "and you can tell 'em that Bill Doolittle and I are going in the navy, or marines on the 11th."

And there go our All-Ohio guard, our ground-covering scat fullback, and second All-Ohio quarterback from the undefeated Mansfield Tyger grid squad of 1941, joining John Butler, Ken Krupp, Bob Timmons and Bill Bermilin in the armed forces.

Al Wooley, national high school bowling champion a year ago, who told me about Bob Timmons being in service, is waiting for a call any day now for service in the merchant marine. He's already enlisted.

And from Nashville, Tenn., Army Air Center comes the word that Bill Simpson, former Tyger trackman, will take physical and psychological examinations to determine which branch of aircrew service—bombardiering, navigating or piloting—he is best fitted. This is his first step in the training program to give him his wings

Here I've been wondering this long time what had happened to Dick Morse, former Mansfield Brave third baseman, who started last season with Tiffin in the Ohio State semi-pro league.

I knew that he went back to Toledo to work, and that's the last I had heard of him until I met his manager on the street a few days ago. He's been in the army six months, and Mrs. Morse has been back in Mansfield three months. Why doesn't somebody tell me these things?

Checking over the old Braves roster, that leaves Pitchers Chuck Byers and Bob Kuzava and Outfielder Eddie Mutryn still out of service. Pitcher Pat Patterson unaccounted for, and the rest all in service.

Whiz Kids Take Four Star Posts

Menke's Injured Foot Keeps Him Off Team.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Illinois basketball team, which smashed almost every Big Ten scoring mark in winning its second consecutive championship, was handed another record today by conference coaches who threw precedent aside and voted four of its members onto the all-star team.

It was the first time in modern Big Ten basketball history that coaches, polled annually for the Associated Press honor roll, paid such overwhelming tribute to one team.

It was richly deserved, for the Illini came through a 12-game schedule in the tough Big Ten circuit unbeaten, the first quintet to do it in 13 years. They averaged 63 points a game, made 325 field goals, ran up 86 points against Northwestern and 92 against Chicago in their last two contests—all records.

Recognizing the amazing teamwork of these youngsters, coaches could do little less than select Andy Phillip at forward, Art Mathisen, center, and Jack Smiley and Gene Vance, guards. It was hard for them to leave off the fifth member, Forward Ken Menke. Menke, however, saw only limited service half of the season because of an injured foot.

In Menke's place went Otto Graham of Northwestern whose deft scoring ability helped the Wildcats to third place in the conference race.

Whiz Kid Phillip was the only unanimous choice and the only holdover from the 1942 all stars. He closed the season with a 40-point outburst to roll up a 255 total in his 12 games of record-wrecking.

Indiana, which gave Illinois its only opposition until dropping two games late in the season, placed two men on the second team—its top scorer, Ralph Hamilton and Center Ward Williams.

Only one Ohio State player—Center Jack Dugger—broke into the all star list, getting honorable mention.

Joyce Defeats Armstrong

Comeback Attempt Derailed on Siding.

By LISLE SHOMAKER

LOS ANGELES — The Henry Armstrong express lay derailed on a siding today—switched there by Willie Joyce, a dusky wraithlike lightweight who beat "Howitzer Hank" to the punch and rapped out a close 10 round decision before 10,400 fans last night.

Joyce's upset win over Armstrong, who was a 3-1 favorite, was anything but whistlestop. The little Gary, Ind., youth, rated No. 2 lightweight in the country behind Beau Jack by the National Boxing association, had the former triple-title holder missing wildly and swinging ineffectually.

Although the winning margin was tight it was decisive and even Henry, suffering his second defeat in last night's 16th comeback attempt, couldn't find fault when Joyce's hand was raised.

"I lost the fight all right. I was rusty and missed a lot of punches. Joyce was awfully fast and I just couldn't seem to nail him down. I'd sure like to meet him again—and soon."

Prospect of a rematch, however, were vague since Armstrong has several committments coming up soon, the first a 10-round bout with Tappy Larkin at San Francisco Monday night.

The underrated Joyce, who had warmed up for this one by polishing off the previously unbeaten John Thomas, fought a hand picked type of boxing.

Joyce met Henry's rugged bull-like rushes with his stabbing left, slipped over solid rights and then backed away leaving the former champ flailing in midair.

Joyce turned the pace red-hot in the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds, taking command with annoying swift punches.

New London Track Stars Honored

NEW LONDON At special chapel and assembly held at New London high school on Tuesday, special awards from the Ohio Association of Track Coaches were presented to Coach Elmer Crabbs, Dale Seibert, NLHS speedster, and Don Haas discus tosser.

These two boys kept New London's track men on the top of the 1942 cinder pile, and were among the first ten Ohio boys to receive recognition.

Crabbs received his certificate as coach of the Wildcat trackmen. The O. A. T. C. was organized in 1942, and the above awards were among the first given by the association.

TRAINS WHITE SOX

CHICAGO — (INS) Edward "Packy" Schwartz, former chief petty officer in the U. S. Navy, today took over the trainer post for the Chicago White Sox.

THREE NEWARK STARS ADVANCE TO YANKEES

NEW YORK—(INS)—Outfielder Art Metheny, Catcher Aaron Robinson and Infielder George Stirnweiss, all members of the Newark club of the International league today had been transferred to the New York Yankees of 1943.

The Yankees announced the signing of the trio as draft insurance prospects for the coming season. Stirnweiss is the best regarded prospect. George is 4F because of stomach ulcers and undoubtedly will make a strong bid for either a third base or shortstop's post.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Toledo's all-freshman basketball team can knock off Long Island U, tonight it will virtually assure the Rockets of a bid to the invitation tournament at the Garden . . . And with Western Kentucky already invited, that might lead up to a tongue-twisting duel between Coaches Ed Diddle and Burl Friddle . . . Of course, one would have to play second fiddle . . . Ex-light Champion Sammy Angott has been toughening himself for his comeback against Willie Pep March 19 by working on a concrete mixer . . . And if Willie is in form, Sammy may think he's been put through the mixer by mistake.

The "special" pace planned for Saturday's I. C. 4 A. track championships is out, partly because Gil Dodds doesn't want to run more than a mile and partly because Greg Rice not only burned up the track but blistered his feet badly in winning the A.A.U. three-mile championship . . . Earl Hilligan, the American league drumbeater, figures a close pennant race will offset the loss of Feller, DiMaggio, Williams, etc., when it comes to drawing the fans. He points out the league attendance record was set in 1940 when Detroit and Cleveland battled right down to the finish.

Hershey Bears Set Loop Record

The pennant bound and record breaking Hershey Bears are holders of the American Hockey league record for goals scored by one club in a single season.

The Bears surpassed the old record last night when they trounced the Washington Lions, 12-1. The dozen markers brought Hershey's total for the campaign to 215, one more than the previous high set by the old Philadelphia Ramblers in 1938-1939.

Two contests were carded for this evening. The Buffalo Bisons will face the Pittsburgh Hornets in Pittsburgh and the Cleveland Barons the Lions in Washington.

Semi-Finals Played In Church League Joust.

St. John's and Baptist will battle for the Senior Church league tournament championship next week, following victories in the semi-finals at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The Baptists won their way into the title battle with a 46 to 31 triumph over St. Luke's, while St. John's rolled to its 10th consecutive win, nipping First Lutheran, 33 to 29.

Paced by Bill Abele and Harry Phillips, the Baptist, who won only one game in first round play, turned on a 14-point rally in the second quarter to build up a commanding 26-15 halftime lead.

St. Luke's cut the advantage to seven tallies in the third frame, but the winners bounced back in the last chapter to chalk up 12 markers to their opponent's seven.

Abele scored 12 points to lead all scorers, while Phillips and Nameth, St. Luke's, each had 10.

St. John's unbeaten outfit had a stiff battle with First Lutheran, with the contest in doubt all the way. The victors trailed, 9-8, at the end of the first frame, but came back with 10 points in the second to lead, 18-17, at halftime.

Lutheran got only three points in the third period while St. John's connected for seven to make the score read 25-20 entering the finale.

"Flick" Flockenzier, long shot artist, had 12 points for St. John's while Mart Bayer tallied nine for Lutheran.

The championship contest next Tuesday night is scheduled for 8:30. Last night's losers, St. Luke's and First Lutheran, will play the consolation tilt at 7:30.

Dizzy Dean Proved His Biggest Headache.

(AP Features)

HOUSTON, Tex.—If Fred Ankenman ever sits down to write a book on baseball he'll have to watch himself or it'll run into a whole library.

Speaking of material: well, Ankenman sent such fellows as Dizzy Dean, Lon Warneke, Wild Bill Hallahan, Pepper Martin, Johnny Rizzo and Howard Pollet to the big show, and that's just a starter.

Ankenman resigned as president of the Houston Buffs of the Texas League the other day. He had been with the Buffs 22 years—five as secretary and 17 as president—and the roster of stars who went from the Houston mill reads like a list of all-time greats in baseball.

During his service here he signed more than 1,500 players to contracts. The Buffs finished on top of the Texas League six times, second five times, third two times, fifth five times, sixth two times, and seventh twice. Not once did the Buffs end up in the cellar.

His two biggest years offered him the most severe headaches. First was in 1928 when the Buffs, with one of the strongest teams in minor league history, waded through for a pennant and the Dixie Series championship with such men as Hallahan, Watty Watkins, Red Worthington, Carey Selph and Heinie Schuble, and drawing the fans by the thousands every game.

But Frank Snyder was the manager and he and Ankenman never could get along. When the season was over Snyder blew up and quit.

In 1931, when the Buffs had their biggest year of all in attendance, Ankenman had another headache—one Dizzy Dean, whose antics robbed Fred of many a night's sleep. But Fred grins today:

"I'd like to have a million headaches like that guy, the greatest showman of them all."

Ankenman either signed or was largely responsible for signing such players as Gus Mancusco, Frank Barnes, Johnny Hudson, George Munger, Johnny Monroe, Ray Benge, Heinie Schuble, Lon Warneke, Johnny Rizzo, Gene Bailey, Watty Watkins, Red Lynn, Howard Pollet, Homer Peel and his own son, Pat Ankenman, who last year managed New Orleans of the Southern Association.

And as far as players who received a trial or got most of their schooling with the Buffs in his many years of service, look at these names:

The Dean brothers, Hallahan, Flint Rhem, Mort Cooper, Howard Krist, Ernie White, Mickey Owen, Walker Cooper, Glenn Wright, Jim Bottomley, Stu Martin, Don Gutteridge, Johnny Hopp, Danny Murtaugh, Ray Blades, Chick Hafey, Joe Medwick, Ival Goodman and so on.

Yes, quite a gang of fellows to figure in a fellow's memoirs.

The estimated cost of erecting the camp has been set at $1,700 including the construction of an utility building to house double toilets and showers. The site selected for the camp is the east end of the Municipal Water company grounds. A cinder drove will be built to the site from North Gamble street.

Council approved sub leasing the playground near the junction on North Broadway to the contractors building the air force supply depot, north of the city, so that the site can be used to erect a ready-mix cement plant for the project. The cement will be brought to the site on a siding off the New York Central railroad and then trucked to the project all ready to be poured.

PASTORS ASK BAR CURFEW AT BUCYRUS

Call For Earlier Closing Hours In Second Request To Mayor, Council.

BUCYRUS -- For the second time within the last few weeks, the Bucyrus Ministerial association proposed to the mayor and the city council that legislation be adopted to set an earlier closing hour for taverns and places where intoxicants are sold.

Appearing before council, three members of the association, spoke in behalf of their petition, charging that absenteeism which is hampering war production is caused by excessive drinking. They also asked the change as a safeguard for the soldiers at Camp Millard.

Council also was asked to consider a curfew for minors in line with similar action being taken in other cities. Both requests were referred to special committees named by Chairman A. J. Flickinger. Councilmen concurred in the need for a curfew but were of varied opinions as to the hour to be set and the age limit of minors to be affected.

A newly established bus line operated by a local taxi company under a taxi license was discussed and referred to the traffic commission and the city solicitor with the view of working out a suitable bus franchise.

Bucyrus went on war time officially when legislation was adopted by council. Eastern Standard War time was unofficially adopted as the official city time at the last meeting of council, two weeks ago.

High food costs brought to the attention of council by Safety Director Carl Jacobs, gave council the problem of providing food for city prisoners who are allowed by state law only 40 cents per day for sustainance. The city solicitor was requested to investigate and make a report at the next regular meeting.

CHIEF WARNS IN RATION THEFTS

Declares Those Stealing Food, Gasoline Books Will Face Federal Charges.

Declaring that any person arrested for the theft of gasoline or food ration books will be turned over to federal authorities for punishment, Police Chief Meade K. Bates today also expressed his utter contempt for house prowlers, asserting he will uphold any policeman who used the most drastic means of capturing this "low type of criminal."

"The house prowler," Chief Bates averred, "usually is a low grade moron—a potential rapist and murderer. Any woman or child who confronts a prowler is in immediate danger of lustful attack or death."

Householders often are to blame, Chief Bates declared, since police investigations invariably disclose some door or window left unlocked. "The prowler usually won't risk awakening occupants of a home by a noisy forcible entry," the police chief explained.

Without confirming that he would approve of a householder resisting an intruder with deadly results, Chief Bates laconically added, "still, a dead house prowler is already paid for." He added cryptically that all policemen are trained in the use of firearms to be employed in the apprehension of criminals.

Housewives, he said, carelessly leave purses and valuables on tables or elsewhere in plain sight and these become "irresistible lures" to the prowling window-peeper.

Returning to the gas and food ration book thefts, Chief Bates cited that the federal government actually owns these records and that theft is punishable by a fine of $10,000 and a prison sentence of three years.

"Such thefts are a form of sabotage," Chief Bates declared, "and I'd recommend the maximum punishment just as in any other subversive activity."

ALLIED PLANES CHASE CRIPPLED ENEMY CONVOY

Knock Out Four Jap Ships, 13 Aircraft in South Pacific Battle.

drome area. At the same time his bombers attacked airdromes on Soemba and Soembava islands, northwest of Australia, destroyed an ammunition ship directly with a 500-pound bomb at Wide Bay, New Britain, and smashed at the Gasmata, New Britain, airdrome in an after-dusk raid, the communique said.

Elated pilots who participated in the attack on the convoy saw heavy bombs explode amidships on the 8,000-ton transport and watched it split in two and sink in flames within two minutes, reports from operations bases said.

The Japanese lost six more planes out of a covey of fighters that attempted to attack an airdrome near Darwin, Australia, shortly after noon yesterday.

Yanks Demolish Jap Barracks In Burma

WITH THE AMERICAN AIR FORCE IN CHINA—(INS)—Accurate American bombing today wiped out 75 per cent of the Japanese barracks area on the Salween river front along the Yunnan-Burma border.

The American bombers spent a half hour over the target, making several bomb runs. Then the Warhawk fighters which had escorted the bombers to the target spent another half hour strafing the ground from low altitude in order to prevent the Japs from putting out the numerous fires which had been started.

The barracks area blasted is situated on the Burma road 10 miles west of the Salween river in western Yunnan province. The spot had been troublesome for weeks because of the accurate anti-aircraft batteries set up there by the Japs.

Direct hits were scored by the American airmen on not only the barracks but also warehouses and slit trenches.

PENSION MONEY USED FOR BONDS

Galion Police Fund Invests $2,000 in War Issues, City Council Informed.

GALION—That the Galion Police Relief Pension fund has $2,143.60 cash bank balance, and that four $1,000 war bonds have been purchased and placed in the city treasury's keeping, was included in the report made to city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night. The average monthly expense of the police relief pension board is $196.

Council also passed a resolution to pay an account of the American Engineering company in the amount of $2,411.70 for repairs to the stoker on No. 1 boiler in the electric light plant. This was an emergency.

The necessity of improving Cronenwett road from Harding Way East to Walnut street, with the installation of a sanitary sewer, was declared in another resolution passed by council.

Council also heard a report by Charles Geiger service and safety director, who told of his trip to Washington, D. C., to get a priority on water feed pumps for boilers, and a cooling tower, for the Galion Municipal Light and Power plant.

W. C. Kamerer, Cleveland consulting engineer for the electric light department, made the trip with Geiger. They were in conference with the war production board and were assured that the city will receive enough material to proceed with work at the light plant in order to operate the plant on a more efficient basis.

PLAN SET UP

CLEVELAND—(UP) Frank W. Ballou, chairman of the area committee for the war manpower commission today announced an employment stabilization plan for Lorain county. The plan is effective immediately.

TAKEN BY DEATH AT AGE OF 88

Mrs. Milton Hess Succumbs At Ashland Hospital.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Milton Hess, 88, died last night at Samaritan hospital. Death was attributed to pneumonia.

Born in Montgomery township, Mrs. Hess was a life resident of Ashland county.

She is survived by one son, P. J. Hess, Ashland, one daughter, Mrs. Garfield Sears, Ashland, two sisters, Mrs. Julia Gardner, Rossburg, and Mrs. Mary Crome, Ashland, and one brother, William Nelson, Ashland.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sears, with Rev. J. C. Inman, pastor of the Third Street Church of Christ officiating. He will be assisted by Rev. T. S. Moherman, retired. Burial will be in Dickey cemetery.

RECOMMENDS 6 STREET JOBS

Engineer Submits Partial Program to Council For Summer Improvements.

embraces pavements where bituminous materials will be used it will no doubt be necessary to make application to federal authorities for material which must be shipped in tank cars."

Statler's program, in order of importance, follows:

West First street from Main to Mulberry streets.

West Second street from Main to Mulberry streets.

East Fifth street from Main to Pennsylvania railroad.

Mulberry street from First street to Park avenue west and from West Fifth to West Sixth streets.

Maple street from Marion avenue to Brinkerhoff avenue.

Marion avenue from Maple street to Cline avenue.

In analyzing his program Statler said West First street evidently has considerable foundation fracture due to water entering under the pavement, with increasing fractures.

Resurfacing of East Fifth street has been recommended in compliance with requests from industrial and commercial users of the thoroughfare. Statler said representatives of the B. and O. railroad will confer with him this week relative to a cost-sharing plan looking to creation of a passable condition of switch tracks in the street.

East Fifth street was paved 45 years ago, according to engineering department records and condition of the driving channel today is described as "deplorable."

Resurfacing of the south section of North and South Mulberry street, Statler says, should require installation of all new service water taps as "constant and numerous excavations for this purpose" have seriously damaged paved surfaces.

The engineer's report advised council that general requirements of the War Production Board for 1943 and to July, 1944, specify that applications must be applied for in March. Certificates for the purchasing of materials for definite work must be obtained through the federal roads administration and these certificates, if obtained, must state when shipments can be made so that tank cars can be allotted in such a manner that shipment of war materials will not be interfered with.

Several other street improvement proposals are pending before council and members last night indicated others may be sought.

COLUMBUS (UP)—The state supreme court today refused to review Crawford county court decisions that Everett M. Cyphers was liable for negligence in a collision of automobiles driven by his wife and Fred Von Kaemle. Cyphers was riding with his wife.

Cyphers sued Von Kaemle for damages and injuries received in the accident but the common pleas court held that in the absence of preponderant evidence Von Kaemle was innocent.

ASHLAND BOY SCOUTS PROTEST 'CURFEW' AT FUN COUNCIL MEET

ASHLAND — Ashland Boy Scouts took issue with the recently proposed "curfew" for Ashland when they shared seats with the city council this week as part of the Boy Scout Week celebration. They not only took issue, they came right out and said they wouldn't like it.

First the Scouts decided that the curfew might be all right for girls or for boys under 13 (Scouts are all 13 or over) but somebody brought up the subject of what a curfew would do to their "dates" so the curfew was declared a dead issue.

The Scouts also did some "viewing with alarm" at some of the city conditions, all of which was noted down dutifully by Mayor Glenn B. Haller in a big notebook. They declared that pigeons roosting on the old Opera House building are a nuisance, that some streets and alleys need fixing, that dogs shouldn't be running loose in town, that oil cans should not be dumped in the Town creek.

Scouts will officially take over operation of the city next Tuesday, an operation which was originally scheduled for this week but which was postponed at the suggestion of the city school superintendent who felt it might interfere with school examinations.

HOPE DAWNS FOR LIFERS

Senate Passes Bill to Give Paroles After Serving 25 Years of Terms.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The first ray of hope dawned today for 414 life-term prisoners in Ohio penal institutions as the state senate passed, 25-0, the Rogers bill to make those serving life sentences for first degree murder eligible for parole after they have served 25 years of their sentences.

At present such convicts—312 in Ohio penitentiary, 95 in the London prison farm and seven in the Marysville women's reformatory—are without any hope of release other than death. Under terms of the Rogers bill, which now goes to the house for concurrence, they now may apply to the parole board for release after 15 years' of actual servitude, counting time off for good behavior.

Sen. P. H. Rogers, Grafton, whose 27th-29th district includes Richland county, pleaded earnestly for passage of his bill, labeling the life-termer "Ohio's forgotten man." He pointed out that his bill would not necessarily release a prisoner after 15 years, but would merely allow him to apply for parole. He would remain under parole board supervision even after his release, and could be re-incarcerated if it was found necessary, Rogers said.

The bill was amended in committee to increase the term a prisoner must serve to 25 years, less time off for good behavior. As originally written, the term was 20 years, which would have made prisoners eligible for parole in 12 years and eight months. This proponents of the bill felt was too short a time.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

CAPACITY HOUSE ON HAND FOR GALION HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT

GALION—Most impressive was the opening number played by the Galion High school band in its annual concert presented Tuesday evening to a capacity house at Senior high school auditorium.

Under the direction of George Rule, the band played "American Patrol," while on the stage was the characterization from the original painting "Spirit of '76." Costumes and flags for this were brought from Columbus. Characters of the presentation included Richard Clark as drummer boy, Robert Pollock, drummer, and Joan Spaid, fife. The '76 colors were carried by Paul Williams. At one end of the stage was the presentation of the American flag representing the "Spirit of 1943," and for this Robert Malone and William Monroe took part. The national anthem was then played, while the audience stood.

One of the highlights of the evening's program was the appearance of F. E. Honnold, superintendent of the Morrow county schools, who acted as guest conductor for the number, "The Billboard," a number that took first place in a band contest at Toledo some 30 years ago when Honnold directed the Galion Boys' band.

The 75-piece band, directed by George Rule, played a variety of ensemble numbers, while there were a number of specialties on the program. These included the presentation of a baptism wedding by Edward Byers as reader, Marianne Gledhill, bride, Dennis Beach, bride's father, Byron Musselman, bridegroom; Robert Muth, preacher.

Trumpeters who appeared for a special number were: Clarence Crissinger, John Kous, Peggy Smith, Jean Cowl, Vivian Tatcher, Glorine Britton.

Selections were sung by a quartet composed of Dorothy Ross, Persis Townsend, Barbara Loby, Peggy Smith, with Charley Kirtland at the chimes. A trombone solo was played by Robert Muth. A flute quartet was composed of Joan Spaid, Magdaline Dickerson, Eleanora Huber and Joan Carleton; while those taking part in a clarinet quartet number were Persis Townsend, Elaine Roop, Jean Lohr and Dorothy Ross.

BLISTER TUNIS IN AIR ATTACK

Allies Shatter Port as Land Forces Stop Nazis Cold on All Fronts.

Mateur area was badly shot up.

Five enemy fighter planes were destroyed yesterday, while one Allied craft is missing.

Among Fortress gunners credited with victories in the latest raid on Tunis were Sergeants Lee Wong Gem, of Chicago—his second victory; Basil L. Lovelace of Congers, N. Y., and Herbert L. Brum of St. Louis. The Chinese pilot got a Focke-Wulf this time, while the others each downed a Messerschmitt.

The southern end of the Tunisian battlefront in the area of the Axis-held Mareth line fortifications was undergoing the same treatment of blistering gunfire and cannonading from Allied aircraft.

Steady improvement was made meanwhile in the positions of American and other Allied forces in the central battle area after the eastward withdrawal of General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps which was defeated at Kasserine Pass. The Americans advanced eastward from Sbeitla after occupying that strategic rail town and United States patrols moved into Feriana, southwest of captured Kasserine.

Headquarters of the French issued a communique reporting that Axis units which had penetrated to the Algerian border at two points considerably southwest of Feriana and Gafsa had been pushed back.

One German unit was driven off at Bir El Ater, 40 miles southwest of Feriana, while a second was ousted from the crossroads point of Ramerza, 50 miles southwest of Gafsa, the communique said.

"Does that not indicate an over-estimation?" asked Chairman Sheppard (D., Calif.) The navy secretary paraphrased the words of John Paul Jones, one of America's most famous sea fighters, in his reply.

"Well," said Knox, "it is hard to answer that question because we have just begun to fight."

Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of the navy's bureau of personnel, explained that, to date: "Less than 10 per cent of the total navy has been involved in any fight."

The new figures were brought to light when Sheppard, studying the estimate of the navy's financial needs, discovered an item to provide clothes for 2,250,000 persons, and demanded to know "what warrant there is" for that number.

"We are building," said Knox, "not a two-ocean navy, but a navy big enough to dominate all seas over the world. The estimates are predicated upon the needs as the ships come in, and as they come in they greatly increase the size of the shore installations to handle such a fleet."

Help your Grocer

Let's Get Behind Him and Make Rationing a Success—Start Now to # use more of the plentiful NON-RATIONED FOODS

THE man who runs your grocery store has his headaches these days. For months, in the face of shortages and lack of experienced help, he's been trying to carry on . . . trying to give you the kind of service you've always expected of him.

Now he has a brand new problem—point rationing. He has to collect the stamps from you as well as the cash.

It's a burden for him—sure—and for you. But he knows and you know that it's got to be done. It's the only fair way of making sure that everybody gets a fair share. That's our way of doing things.

So it's his job—and your job—everybody's job—to make point rationing work . . . as smoothly, as efficiently as possible. Traffic jams in food stores aren't going to help anybody.

Now there are a number of ways in which you can give this grocer of yours a real hand . . . in a good, neighborly American way. You can shop early in the day, early in the week. You can shop as infrequently as possible—once a week only, if you can manage. You can always make sure to have a shopping list, and to have your "point values" added up before you go to the store.

And you can help yourself as well as your grocer by using the plentiful, non-rationed foods as much as you can, instead of the scarce, rationed foods. Foods such as cereals, fresh fruits and vegetables, home-cooked soups, home-canned fruits and vegetables are not rationed and they deserve an important place in your wartime meals.

Because cereals are one of these abundant unrationed foods, we here at the Kellogg factory in Battle Creek have been doing everything we possibly can to meet the unprecedented demand for our products. We're sending millions upon millions of packages of crisp Kellogg Cereals to the boys in our armed forces. We're packing K-ration for troops in the front line of fighting. Even our machine shop is making gun parts! And we're short of help, too. There are 423 stars on the big service flag hanging in the lobby of the Kellogg building.

But in spite of these wartime difficulties, we've doubled our efforts to be sure that we can supply Kellogg Cereals to the millions of American families who are depending on cereals more than ever.

Always famous for marvelous flavor, every Kellogg Cereal is made of WHOLE GRAIN or is restored to WHOLE GRAIN NUTRITIVE VALUES through the addition of thiamin (vitamin $B_1$), niacin and iron. With milk alone, or with milk and fruit, a bowl of crisp, delicious Kellogg Cereal gives you vitamins, minerals, protein, food-energy in one dish!

And remember this about cereals in your daily meals. They're quick and easy to prepare. No cooking, no pans or skillets to clean up. Even the dishes are easier to wash.

Cereals save time—work—fuel—other foods. Used in hamburger, meat-loaves, croquettes, etc., they help you stretch your meat . . . and they make milk go farther, too.

Think of cereals as one of your best, most nutritious, non-rationed foods and think of Kellogg Cereals as the finest you can buy.

GOLDEN RULES OF FOOD RATIONING

(Cut this out and save it for reference)

1—Share your food with our fighting men.
2—Shop earlier in the day, early in the week and only once a week, if possible, to lighten congestion in the store.
3—Make up a shopping list and add up the points BEFORE you shop. Include fresh fruits and vegetables, cereals, and other unrationed foods where you can.
4—Plan your family diet carefully. Get enough nourishment. Make up menus for the week.
5—Use 8 and 5 point stamps when you can, save 1 and 2 point stamps to make the count come out even. Your grocer cannot give you "change" in Blue Stamps.
6—Plant a Victory Garden.
7—Do all the home canning possible.
8—Don't blame your grocer for wartime inconveniences.

FROM O. P. A. CONSUMER INSTRUCTION SHEET

"EAT MORE CEREALS—There is an abundance of cereals and, as you know, they are mighty economical. They are nourishing and delicious—what's more, cereals can be used to stretch your rations when mixed with vegetables and fruits."

say about the production program," said Howard Stone, member of the county Triple-A farm committee.

George Mentzer, another member of the committee, asserted that farmers must decide soon whether they prefer higher prices for any crops they can produce or government incentive payments for growing the food crops that are most essential.

With the selective service boards figuring prominently in discussions of the farm labor problem, C. C. Hartzel, Shelby, chairman of county Board 3, said today that his board hadn't inducted "what we considered a farm worker since the first of the year."

He added that the board insisted that farm operators and workers who are deferred are asked to help their neighbors with their farm work whenever possible.

"We insist that men who receive deferments do everything they can to assist their neighbor farmers when their own work is light," he said. "Farm workers also are told that they must stay with their farm jobs."

Hartzel said he believed figures would show that the shift of farm workers to city jobs had done considerably more to create a farm labor shortage that the induction of farm workers into the armed forces.

Board 3 serves the county's rural districts and is frequently faced with requests for deferments for farm laborers and operators.

PRESS HUNT FOR TRAPPED MINERS

BEARCREEK, Mont.—(UP)—Rescue workers, crawling on hands and knees through piles of debris, searched the inner recesses of the Smith coal mine today in search of 54 miners trapped since Saturday morning by an explosion that exacted a known death toll of 20.

W. A. Romek, assistant mine superintendent, said the rescue effort, blocked temporarily by a breakdown in the hastily repaired ventilation system, was proceeding rapidly.

Rescue squads have brought the bodies of only two of the 20 known victims to the surface leaving the rest, mangled beyond identification, until all 74 of the entombed men are accounted for. Mine officials believed all had been killed either in the explosion or by poisonous black damp gas which permeated the mine.

CHEESE, TOO!

Meat Rationing Expected To Include Dairy Product.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The office of price administration may order point rationing of both meat and cheese to begin about April 1 with each consumer probably limited to an average combined allotment of 1¾ pounds a week, it was learned today.

Reliable sources also believed that rationing of butter, oleomargarine, lard and other cooking fats and oils may be ordered at the same time.

Deputy OPA Administrator Paul O'Leary, chief of the rationing program, was informed of these reports, said OPA was awaiting the recommendations of the agriculture department which must make the first move. Meat rationing has been planned for some time.

LONDON — (AP) — Further Red army gains in the area west of Kharkov were announced in the Russian midday communique recorded here today by the Soviet radio monitor.

Several more towns were captured and about 300 of the enemy were killed in one sector, and in another 14 German tanks were destroyed and a column of German motorized infantry routed by Red army tank forces, the Russians said.

Two more towns were taken west of Kursk and another town was captured southwest of Voroshilovgrad in the night's fighting, the war bulletin said.

STILL DELAYED

U. S. Word on Truck Purchase Stalls Can Collection.

Delay in obtaining federal releases which will permit purchase of a truck for the recently created salvage division of the garbage department is holding up tin can collections from Mansfield homes, city officials said today.

Service Director Fred B. Wolff had expressed the hope yesterday that council last night would vote funds for the truck purchase. After council met it was explained that the absence of Russell Porch, First ward member and finance committee chairman, delayed consideration of the truck purchase.

In December, council voted $260 for a used truck and provided for appointment of a two-man salvage crew in compliance with war production board instructions. The truck which the city intended to buy was sold to private parties and it was indicated more funds would be needed to purchase a cargo carrier which is available from a local agency.

Hunt Last of Gang Who Escaped From Cincinnati Jail

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (U.P.) — Police and federal agents conducted a city-wide manhunt today for Harry Ralph Bever, 26, third member of a gang which escaped last week from a Cincinnati, O., jail where they were held on bank robbery charges.

FBI agents captured William I. Radkay, 31, leader of the three, and Samuel Ricketts, 28, Monday and yesterday. Police trapped the three Friday night but they escaped after a gun battle.

The FBI agents were convinced Bever still was in hiding in the city and were confident he would be apprehended soon.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip Monday night, the agents picked up Radkay near his hotel. He was unarmed and submitted to arrest without resistance.

Yesterday, following up another tip, FBI men found Ricketts hiding in a coal bin in a rooming house basement. He also submitted without resistance.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3, 1943.

This will be a good year to can what you can and buy little that you can can.

It is also being noted that home-sliced bread leaves more crumbs for the birds.

Nobody has found a better formula for winning the war than Churchill's "blood and sweat and toil and tears."

British Bombers Blast Berlin

SUCH air raids as the Allies are now able to unleash against the Axis evidences the high speed at which Great Britain and the United States have moved in building up an air force which was so sadly lacking in the early days of Nazi blitz attacks on London and other English cities and towns.

Monday night's pummeling of Berlin was the heaviest assault thus far made on Germany's capital city, and one which can scarcely fail to upset any ideas of German people that the heart of Naziland is safe from the actual violence of war.

The almost continuous bombing of Germany and occupied Europe, which started from England last Thursday, has stretched to the longest, largest and most destructive air offensive in history.

Many interpret these intensified air attacks as a prelude to the long-talked-about land invasion of Europe, but whether that stage of the Allied war strategy is being approached must remain problematical until the actual move comes.

Hitler is apparently among those who think invasion is not far off as he has been strengthening channel fortifications and is also guarding the Norwegian coast to an extent not heretofore deemed necessary.

Under Secretary for Air Capt. Harold Balfour went so far as to say in London yesterday that the present air offensive "is preparing the way for an Allied invasion of Europe," but it is part of United Nations propaganda to keep the enemy guessing, and it is unlikely that such hints will be taken seriously, as, in all probability, there will be no "hint" of time or place when an invasion force is in readiness.

For the present the Allied blows from the air, including those aimed particularly at U-boat bases, are proving effective in reducing the output of submarines and destroying major industrial and transportation centers in Germany, thus co-operating with Russia in weakening the Nazi war machine, pending the final knockout blows.

Anticipating Aviation Requirements

THE LEA-BAILEY BILL to amend the Civil Aeronautics act, not only represents a continuation of far-sighted policy to promote further successful efforts of the aviation industry in assisting the government in war work, but it also fosters peacetime development of aeronautics.

The current annual report of the Civil Aeronautics board attests the value of this aviation policy. It shows how, under the act, air lines have been able to cooperate with the military services and continue to operate under private management, although peacetime functions were subordinated to war needs.

When war was declared, air carriers had available the equipment and personnel for transfer to direct military service. They had the organizations and plants capable of undertaking many operations other than the conduct of transportation, thereby relieving the military commands of time and effort necessary to provide such facilities. Both army and navy are utilizing the carriers' organizations to send supplies to every theater of war.

Congressional leaders recognize that the United States needs far-sighted aviation policies to maintain world leadership in air defense and commercial air service.

Warns Against 'Freakish' Houses

ANYONE taking a leisurely walk in any American city can find plenty of queer houses. There are always a few with simple, gracious lines to delight the eye. There are a few not too bad, giving evidence of having been built for indoor convenience without thought for outer appearance. There are always a number which indicate that the contractor knew nothing about architectural proportion, but saw a picture in a magazine and thought it would be stylish to improve it a little. The people who bought the house thought it had a "cute kitchen" and a nifty window somewhere and are perfectly happy.

Besides these normal houses, there are always a few real freaks. There is the Spanish house in the northern city, whose climate its surface could not withstand. There's the modernistic box—one of the early types, lacking either the grace or sense of the newer designs—set in a streetful of old red brick, like the traditional sore thumb. If the town's old, maybe there is an octagon house.

Joseph B. Mason, editor of the American Builder, warns the public against freak designs after the war. There will be a boom in home-building, and everywhere new ideas will be bursting into bloom. New ideas are all right. But there's a difference between the new and original and the merely freakish.

Some Remembered Song Hits

WHERE are the songs of yesterday? Gone, but by no means always forgotten. Bennett Cerf, in the "Saturday Review of Literature," recalls the song hits of the last 35 years, and an interesting list it is.

"Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" have been part of the repertoire of barber-shop quartets so long that it is hard to imagine when they did not exist. But the "Old Gray Bonnet" dates only from 1909, and the other from 1910.

Also 1909 was the year that first heard the most popular of railroad songs, "Casey Jones." "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up In the Morning," Irving Berlin's army hit of 1918, has been revived to good purpose for this war. World War I produced not only "Over There," as everyone knows, but also, surprisingly, "Smiles."

Who now remembers "Ja-Da," a 1918 product, or anything but the title of 1923's hit, "Yes, We Have No Bananas"?

Word comes from London that, at the age of 82, gloomy Dean Inge is still as pessimistic as a 19-year-old sophomore.

Hereafter, in speaking of "the man of the hour," please specify which hour.

IMAGINE HOW YOU'D FEEL—

Hindu Program of Majority Rule Is Opposed By Moslem Minority

(Editor's Note: In tomorrow's article, DeWitt Mackenzie, recently returned from a study of the Indian situation, continues his discussion of the Hindu-Moslem differences. The following is the eighth in a series of ten articles by the noted war analyst.)

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE INDIAN political crisis bristles with more dangerous points than a porcupine does with quills, but the greatest of these is the Hindu-Moslem division which, through the generations, has been marked by a bitterness that frequently has produced bloodshed in communal rioting.

Religious differences are the chief basis of this feud, which perhaps isn't so surprising when one casts an eye about the world and notes other countries where there have been, and still are, similar difficulties. Out of these animosities has grown a distrust which has constantly made compromises hard of achievement.

This deep division between the main parties reached the point where the Hindus and the Moslems charged each other with seeking to rule India. The British have pointed out this situation as evidence that self-government on a united basis was difficult. The Indians charged the government was exploiting these differences in order to continue imperialistic rule.

MAYBE it will simplify this confused Hindu-Moslem mixup if we take a glance at it from this angle: The population of India is estimated at about 388,000,000. There are some 275,000,000 Hindus and 90,000,000 Moslems. That is to say, the Hindus outnumber the Moslems by three to one, and I call your attention to this because it's the key to much that follows.

Now the Hindus are Nationalists. They want a National government which will take in the whole of India. The Moslems object to a National government on the ground that, since the Hindus have a majority of three to one, the Moslems would be constant minority without a look-in.

The vehicles which are carrying this heavy argument are three organizations. The Hindus are grouped mainly in the powerful all-India Congress, which is dominated by Mahatma Gandhi, and in the Hindu Mahasabha, which comprises the more orthodox Hindus. The All-India Congress claims to be National and to include members of all religions, though its opponents assert that it is chiefly Hindu.

The Moslems are represented by the powerful All India Moslem league. This is under the presidency of Mahomed Ali Jinnah, a brilliant lawyer who is one of India's outstanding personalities.

In Jinnah's forceful leadership the league has developed an explosive idea to safeguard the Moslem minority against that Hindu majority of three to one. They call it Pakistan.

The Pakistan (land of the pure) program rejects entirely the Hindu program for a national government and aims at the division of India into two wholly autonomous states. One of these would be Moslem and the other Hindu, and each would go its own way.

I flew 800 miles from Delhi to Bombay just to see the great man. I was with him a good part of two days and it was time well spent.

Jinnah is 66 years old but looks 20 years younger with his slim, dapper figure and unlined face.

"I would welcome any move which would dissolve the political deadlock," he said. "But what move could be made to secure satisfactory settlement?

"A parliament with a Hindu majority is impossible, it is a menace to Islam.

"The conception of a united democratic India, having a federal constitution, is an impossible proposition. That is true whether you call the federal connection loose or call it something else."

"A federal government is a trap. Once you are in it you can't get out. A federal link can be developed only if the people are homogeneous. The Moslems and the Hindus are two different nations. They have nothing in common.

"They have different histories, different languages, different cultures and different laws. It isn't alone a question of religion. Their whole social life is different. Democracy is an alien philosophy of the Hindu and to his religion and to his caste system. There is no social intercourse among the many Hindu castes.

Well, having listened for hours to this line of argument I began to view the prospects of Indian unity through dark glasses.

Dare to Change!

WAR TIMES. Tough any way you take them. Daily the pile of letters grows on my desk. Letters expressing the agony and disillusionment of a peace loving people. But you might be surprised if you dipped into that pile. Crybaby stuff, much of it. All too often, bleakly tragic.

But it isn't the loss or the loneliness that gets most of us down. It isn't the danger or fright or anger. It's the CHANGE. There's the thing that hits us hardest.

Time was when Americans thrived on change. It was the source of our rebellion . . . the foundation of our strength and character and national policy. We had left the Old World because we desired and demanded Change. Those older people still clung to their traditions, their cherished way of life. But we sought Change, regardless of risk. Not only change in rotation of work but change in ideas and attitudes. Changes that brought an actual resurrection.

They were dangerous, of course, those changes. They were uncomfortable, bought at a great price. But we welcomed them. For they brought rebirth. We became young again, mentally and spiritually supple, filled with new curiosity, eager to tackle any new challenge or face any hardship with eager hearts.

SO AMERICA WAS BORN . . . OUT OF HEARTS WHICH SOUGHT AND WELCOMED CHANGE.

Then life became easy. Too easy. We found comfort and security. We no longer needed to face constant change. It was a pleasant relief to stay in a rut . . . stand behind counters instead of clearing wildernesses. The Indian fighting days, the Covered Wagons, had passed. There were safe fences about our houses and ranches—and minds. We no longer had the old recklessness or curiousity.

Gradually we adopted what was called "The American Way of Life" . . . delighted in it . . . boasted of it. Boasted while, secretly, our enemies prepared to take advantage of our softness and self indulgence.

We didn't suspect what was happening. We were furious if anyone warned us. For we were satisfied that our own program was the best. We gloated over the record of our fighting fathers and fondly imagined we were following in their steps. But we weren't. We had enormous wealth and power but, little by little, we had lost our old initiative . . . our ability to change.

So it fell upon us like a blow in the dark . . . Pearl Harbor. And, more terrible than any bombs, came the realization that the world despised, rather than admired, us for our softness. Moreover there was no triumphant rebirth in this new challenge. We didn't want to change. We didn't want a new world. We wanted to cling to the old world we'd always known . . . to the old habits and prejudices, the old ideas.

THE NECESSITY TO CHANGE — THAT HIT MOST OF US HARDER THAN ANY ENEMY.

Trifling changes, many of them, hardly worth noticing. But they've changed our tidy world into something like a Dunkerque. And there's proof, if any were needed, how deeply we've needed change. For the life that can't change dies as surely as if hit by some mortal plague. Change is the most vital process in our growth. It's the miracle which rolls the stone away from the tomb. Don't rebel against it! Welcome and accept it! Have the courage to follow the new trail it opens before you!

War Department Labor Advisers Suggest Way to Cut Absenteeism

WASHINGTON—Under Secretary of War Patterson's labor advisers have a one-point program for ending absenteeism in war plants. Here is the one point:

Communities should adjust themselves to the hours of the factories. Stores, banks, doctors, lawyers, plus other services should be available not merely for one shift of workers but for all shifts. At present, workers on the swing shift, beginning at midnight, find themselves out of gear with the life of the community. The greatest absenteeism is among workers on the odd shifts, and can be attributed not to indifference to winning the war but to the inconvenience of trying to live and buy food and get Johnny to the doctor, while the swing shift turns night into day.

Absenteeism is higher among women than men, which may mean nothing more than trouble with the ration board. A woman will take a day off from the factory because she has to register for canned foods, or because a child is sick in the family, or because she hasn't had time to buy a new dress at the store.

Remedy for this is nothing less than two or three shifts on the part of the services that serve the workers. The ration board, it is suggested, should come to the factory.

In many cases, war department advisers say, absenteeism is caused not by loafing but by overwork. In certain machine-tool areas, such as New England, men have been working 50 and 56 hours a week for years. They are simply exhausted.

Incidentally, this factor is the principal cause of absenteeism in Germany, where workers are worn down by unremitting labor and long hours.

Note: There is little sympathy in Undersecretary Patterson's office for the Rickenbacker crusade against labor. It is regarded as useless and unsound to try to appeal to workers over their leaders.

Navy Bottleneck.

THE NAVY'S vital Bureau of Ships, sometimes a target of congressional criticism because of naval construction and design, has been revamped and re-energized under alert Admirals Ed Cochrane and Earle Mills.

In addition to these A1 men at the top, the bureau also has some excellent younger men, many of them reserve officers, brought in from outside walks of life.

But the bottleneck between the top and the bottom is very narrow and the movement through it is slow. Executive who guards it is Captain A. R. Marron, old line Annapolis graduate who believes that every "t" must be crossed and every "i" dotted. Orders moving over that desk, flow at snail-like pace.

In the navy, secret orders cannot be phoned or telegraphed. Instructions to shipyards all over the U. S. A. contain vital military secrets, and they must go by mail. Thousands of letters regarding ship design, changes in design, materials for ships, specifications, must clear from the Bureau of Ships daily, and some of the most important go over Captain Marron's desk.

However, he believes that every letter should be written in standard Annapolis tradition. If it isn't, kindly, patient Capt. Marron turns the letter back to the younger officers to be re-written. Sometimes this takes days of re-writing. One letter was held up for eight months.

As a result, impatient younger officers have devised a neat formula. They wait until after 4:30 p. m. to sign mail. At 4:30 Marron goes off duty and they can assume responsibility. So they sign the letters themselves, rush out vitally needed instructions that night.

No Russian Hurrahs.

AMERICAN observers in Russia report that the public is not throwing its red cap in the air over current military successes. The reaction is not much different in fact, from the reaction to losses.

"The mood of the Russian people," says one report, "hasn't changed much since last summer when they were being driven back to the Volga. Nor has it changed much from the years of peace."

"It is explained that Russians have become accustomed to tumult and personal danger. For 25 years they have lived in an atmosphere of revolution, purges, and starvation. War has brought no sudden shock to them as to us.

Even in the face of the terrific losses Russia has suffered in this war, the losses forced upon Russia by her own government ten years ago remain almost unsurpassed. When the Soviet government was imposing on the people, the unwelcome system of collective farming, farmers were denied seed for planting, and a vast number of people, estimated between 2 and 5 million, starved to death.

The Russians are stolid, taking defeat or victory in their stride.

Liberia's New Band.

WHEN President Roosevelt visited President Edwin Barclay of Liberia recently, the latter, anxious that the negro republic be prepared, asked for U. S. arms to equip the Liberian frontier force of 800 to 900 men.

Roosevelt promised to see what he could do. When he returned he found that it would not be possible to spare the arms and ammunition requested. For one thing, shipping space is too important and it was deemed more advisable to save it for urgently needed cargoes to North Africa.

Instead, the Liberian military band will receive as a gift from the United States a new set of musical instruments. There will be 28 instruments, including a bass drum and a variety of brass horns.

Streaks of Dust Reveal Approach Of Enemy Tanks In Tunisian Attack.

THE TUNISIAN FRONT—(By Wireless): We were in the midst of the forward rushing tanks, but didn't know what the score was. So I pulled the jeep to the side, gradually easing a way out.

We decided to get to a high spot and take a look at what was happening, before we got caught. So we bounced over gullies and ditches, up the side of a rocky hill. There—in a hidden gully—we found the commanding colonel, standing beside a radio half-trac. We stood close enough to the radio to hear the voice of the battalion commander who was leading the tank attack. At the same time, through binoculars, we watched the fantastic surge of caterpillar metal move forward amidst its own dust.

ERNIE PYLE

Far across the desert, in front of us, lay the town of Sidi Bou Zid. Through the glasses we could see it only as a great oasis, whose green trees stood out against the bare brown of the desert. On beyond were high hills, where some of our troops were still trapped after the surprise attack of the day before.

* * *

BEHIND our tanks, leading the attack, other armored vehicles puffed blue smoke. New formations began to move forward swiftly. The artillery went first, followed by armored infantry in half-tracs and even in jeeps. Now the entire desert was surging in one gigantic movement.

Over the radio came the voice of the battalion commander:

"We're in the edge of Sidi Bou Zid, and have struck no opposition yet." So our tanks were across the vast plain, which the Germans had abandoned during the night—after the chaos of the previous day.

This peaceful report from our tank charge brought no comment from anyone around the command truck. Faces were grave; it wasn't right—this business of no opposition at all; there must be a trick in it somewhere.

Suddenly, brown geysers of earth and smoke began to sput. We watched through our glasses. Then, from far off, came the sound of explosions.

Again the voice from the radio: "We're getting shelled, but can't make out where it's coming from."

Then a long silence, while the geysers continued to burst.

"I'm not sure, but I think it's artillery along the road north of town. . . . Now there is some from the south."

WE LOOKED, and could see through our glasses the enemy advancing. They were far away, perhaps 10 miles—narrow little streaks of dust, like plumes, speeding down the low sloping plain from the mountain base toward the oasis of Sidi Bou Zid. We could not see the German tanks, only dust plumes extending and pushing forward.

Just then I realized we were standing on the very hill the general had picked out for me on his map that morning. It was not good enough.

I said to the young lieutenant: "Let's get on up there."

He replied: "I'm ready."

So we got into the jeep and went leaping and bounding up toward what was—but we didn't know it then—the most ghastly armored mele that has occurred so far in Tunisia.

Dave Boone Says:

THIS is national-chart-study-week all over America. That list of point values went up in the groceries Monday and it was a question early today whether the grocers or the customers were ahead when the stores closed.

With 3,567 district still unheard from, it looked like a tie.

Those charts resemble the list of candidates and issues posted in the voting machines. When I faced all those canned tomatoes, fruit juices and beans I looked around for a lever that would close a curtain around me while I made up my mind what to go for.

One thing that remained unsettled was whether the clerks can add any better than the customers. From all the arguments I heard there seemed to be a wide difference of opinion on that point.

I thought that the customers were standing the ordeal better than the clerks. They looked pretty frazzled last night. My groceryman sank onto a soap box in exhaustion and said he would head straight for a hospital for nervous disorders if he knew how many points he would have to have to get in.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

Neglected Vineyard

FOUR BLUEBIRDS perched on a small wild cherry, on the slope. Their slender backs were as cleanly blue as an April sky. They warbled gaily basking in the sun, then flew in undulating paths to another resting place.

The robin, not to be outdone, arrived a half hour later. He chirped and sang, then came down upon the greening lawn and listened for a lusty worm.

That evening frogs croaked doubtfully from different parts of the lowland—one bold individual hesitantly tuned his bass. The first faltering music of this spring-like orchestra had its effect on me. Early next morning I went to the garden and began to clean up the vineyard.

The vineyard is to the east, outside my window. Last summer weeds and quack grass bested me, and frost found the grapes entirely hidden by overhanging growth that devastated my morning view of autumn sunrise like an odor of tainted goodness, and saddened my finer senses.

It seemed the fitting thing to do, on the first spring day, to rake and pile great windrows of last year's weeds and grass midway between the rows, and burn them. I raked and piled and forked all morning long. I resolved on a trellis, and clean cultivation for the present year. When the seven rows were clean, I stood up straight—with difficulty, for my back was tired, my arms ached and my face was streaked with sweat.

Only a few of the weaker vines were missing. I thrust in cuttings wherever one was out. But I knew that the sturdier vines might have made twice the growth they did, if weeds had not taken possession.

I applied a firebrand of withered grass to the row of weeds and the western wind blew the consuming fire neatly down the rows, one by one. Now six black lines of char and seven rows of sickly, spindly grape stalks are there for me to look upon from my window. Ravages of neglect are there before me—my fork and my fire did not erase the folly of last year.

But even though a thousand varieties of evil seeds lie dormant there, to spring up later, I shall call upon pride, self respect, and the hope of fruit to aid me in keeping my vineyard clean this year.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Good Gardening Requires Good Tools.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

(Released by Central Press Assn.)

N CALLING upon the Ameri- people for 18,000,000 Victory etable gardens this year Unit- States Secretary of Agriculture ckard has said, "Home vege- le gardens can make a vital tribution—if they are well di- ted . . . efficient . . ."

o assure added efficiency in r Victory gardening it is not early to give thought to the s on hand or required, for good dening requires good tools. he size of your Victory garden determine the set of tools re- ed. Five tools, however, are essary for good vegetable gar- ing. In order of their impor- ce they are: A digging spade ork, a strong iron-tooth rake, harp, strong hoe, and a four or -tined cultivator.

s illustrated in the accompanying Garden Graph, clean and hang up your garden tools when the job is done. A section of grooved siding nailed to the wall of garage or shed makes a handy tool rack. The "groove" will hold straight-edged tools, and wooden pegs or spikes inserted in the board at intervals will hold other types of tools by the handles.

As illustrated, frequent filing of the digging edges of hoe and spade will keep them sharp and thus make your gardening easier.

Painting the handles of tools a bright orange color makes it harder to lose them, and due to shortages tools as well as Victory gardens should be conserved this year.

Cloves once were sold at more than their weight in gold.

Miss Harrington Is Speaker at Study Club Meet

The challenge created by war for women in the presentation of new and enlarged responsibilities was discussed today by Miss Janette T. Harrington, director of the women's department, Ohio Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Monday Study club, Monday evening at the home of Mrs. William Weldon, Davis road.

"This coming to grips with the war presents a tremendous challenge to women," Miss Harrington said, "as its impact comes constantly closer and we see more and more men and women going into the service, we are brought face to face with the realization of our increased responsibilities which must be met."

These, according to the speaker, include:

1. A greater responsibility in the home where there must be alertness to the spiritual and physical health of the family, to conservation and efficient management under restricted budgets and adjustment to new products.

2. Need for solution of problems created by the increased number of women in industry by those who are not engaged in actual war production.

3. Need for a solution of the economic problems of the day through a thorough understanding of them.

Examples cited by Miss Harrington in the latter case were those relating to inflation and those attending production of consumer supplies.

"We know need for essential materials requires curtailment of ordinary production," she said. "Manufacturers might have devised new products from non-essential materials if men and machinery and management were not also in urgent demand. We must look forward to the day when products of manufacturers' ingenuity are put on the market."

Another responsibility stressed by the speaker was that of having faith in America's future.

"And a final and very important responsibility is to serve as competent citizens during the war," Miss Harrington said. "With so many menfolk being in the service, it devolves on women to help direct the affairs of the day. Responsibility as citizens does not end with casting a vote. It means helping to decide the important issues facing the women."

The speaker cited issues which include the question of adequacy of laws governing women's employment; rationing of new items; first-hand experience with curtailment of consumers' goods which so far have been cushioned by merchants' supplies.

"These things," said the speaker, "bring us face to face with war's efforts. In a way, this is a good thing—it will make us work harder for victory."

Mrs. William Bloor presided at the table when refreshments were served. Miss Roselyn Mowry was associate hostess.

Books were collected for the Victory Book campaign, the chairman of which is Mrs. Lloyd Brown.

The next meeting will be the annual guest meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Carlton Fernyak, March 15.
